

Exhibitions

Editors Picks: 11 Things Not to Miss in New York's Art World This Week

This week, check out a panel discussion on art and the internet, plus Mark Flood's protest signs go on view.

Artnet News, January 27, 2020

11. “Xenia: Crossroads in Portrait Painting” at Marianne Boesky

Marianne Boesky's group show “Xenia: Crossroads in Portrait Painting” explores the resurgence of portraiture through the varied cultural lenses of 17 artists who, in their distinct ways, examine the role of the individual in a globalized society that's becoming increasingly fractured. With contributions from artists such as Chloe Wise, Maria Farrar, Polina Barskaya, Salman Toor, Cristina Canale, Amoako Boafo, Cindy Ji Hye Kim, and Somaya Critchlow, Boesky's thought-provoking exhibition addresses the tenuous relationships between one's identity, place, and social mores, suggesting that as our perceptions of these become more complex, so, too, do our notions of the self.

Location: Marianne Boesky Gallery, 509 West 24th Street

Price: Free

Time: Tuesday–Saturday, 10 a.m.–6 p.m

—Noor Brara