

NEW YORK

To Do: May 7–21 Our biweekly guide on what to see, hear, watch, and read.

Art

15. See Larissa Bates

Jewel-like miniature paintings.

Monya Rowe Gallery, 224 West 30th Street, No. 304; through May 10. In her current outing, this child of a Costa Rican mother, who died when Bates was just an infant, and a hippie American stonemason portrays her family and various unidentified others. The paintings here are spatially claustrophobic, compositionally complex, and ultradetailed. —Jerry Saltz

May 7, 2025